FOR JEREMY RHAMES, TRUCKING HAS OFFERED MANY OPPORTUNITIES.

Experienced truck driver Jeremy Rhames joined Roehl Transport in search of more home time and more money in a solo truck driving job. What he found might surprise you.

Jeremy got into trucking to provide for his family. "I started OTR trucking when I found out I was going to have a baby. I needed to make more money and trucking seemed to be the answer. So I left my tear-filled wife at the bus station to go try to make us a better life."

Jeremy started his truck driving career at a trucking company who offered CDL training that was effectively two student drivers operating as a forced team. "The truck never stopped," he recalled.

After a year on the road, he knew he needed better balance. "I'd be out four weeks at a time and then get home for four days," he added. He completed his training agreement and began his search for a new carrier. In doing his research, Roehl stood out, especially in online trucking company reviews.

"I came to Roehl looking for more home time and more money. They exceeded my expectations on both." That was over four years and nearly 600,000 safe miles ago.

Jeremy, who is in a regional truck driving job that gets him home weekly, noted he drove about 30,000 miles last quarter. An introspective and thoughtful person, Jeremy said that his truck driving job has given him many opportunities to reflect on and contemplate the events and direction of his life. For example, Jeremy cherishes the time he has with his loved ones even more. He's been able to save for his first home (which he's really proud of), plus he was able to take a month off to be with his family for the birth of his second daughter. He's also matured and has now chosen more responsibility by becoming a Certified Truck Driver Trainer. "I'm looking forward to sharing what I've learned with new drivers to help them be successful here," he shared.

"Our company is built on values: Respect, Accountability, Integrity, Customer Care, Honesty, Driver Success and the cornerstone, Safety," he stated. It's those values that "bring us together," Jeremy added.

Roehl Transport is one of the safest, most successful trucking companies in North America, and CEO Rick Roehl is also a driver who still hauls loads to stay close to the work drivers do for customers. "I respect that Rick drives. He leads by example - he wouldn't expect you to do something he wouldn't do," Jeremy commented.

That commitment to Driver Success shows up in many ways. From the introduction of address-to-address practical route mileage calculations that more accurately reflect the miles drivers have driven on each load to the My Roehl App to keeping moving and earning during the pandemic, Jeremy said Roehl is doing things right. "In addition to supporting me financially with stable and steady work, if I need to get home, they get me there." He continued, "The My Roehl App is focused on making a driver's life easier. When I have a question, I know how to get it answered. I believe Roehl prioritizes its drivers and will do anything within reason to accommodate them."

Jeremy also really likes the people he works with. "They really demonstrate what a successful team looks like. Competent and professional. Like a well-oiled machine."

"It wasn't easy overcoming personal obstacles and adapting to trucking life, but with the support of my wife and our team at Roehl, I was able to meet my personal and professional goals. I really am grateful for this opportunity. I think Roehl is a great example of what a successful business looks like. I am happy to be a part of a winning team," he concluded.

Jeremy Rhames lives in Ohio with his wife and two daughters. In his free time, he enjoys planning family activities and outings, and he is a serious audiobook listener. He said that "seeing my daughters' faces light up when I come in the door" keeps him motivated.
